SUMMARY

A small, secured storage area, probably associated with Mozdok Airfield, is located 8 kilometers (km) west-northwest of the city of Mozdok.

The installation covers 30 acres and contains a small administration building, a revetted storage building, and 6 general storage buildings. A security fence with cleared lanes on both sides surrounds the installation, and a barrier gate is located at the entrance.

Two [ ] missions, one in 1963 and the other in 1964, provided interpretable photography of the area. The referenced Army DPCR, based on [ ]

[ ] was used for comparison. Since 1957, the area has been reduced from 82 to 30 acres, 8 buried bunkers have disappeared, and track activity and roads are no longer evident. Only the security fence, cleared lanes, and barrier gate remain to show that there is still activity.

DESCRIPTION OF INSTALLATION

Road Service

A hard-surfaced access road connects with the highway leading into Mozdok. There is no discernible road system inside the installation.

General Storage Area

Area E contains 1 administration and 6 storage buildings.

Ammunition Storage Area

Area F contains a 50- by 20-foot revetted storage building.
